

Seven policemen served showcause notice after case papers go missing

SAGAR RAJPUT
MUMBAI, JANUARY 19

MUMBAI POLICE have issued showcause notices to seven investigating officers of nine cases from Wadala police station after all the documents pertaining to those cases went missing.

Police officials said that the cases were registered between 2011 and 2015 while the officers were working at Wadala police station. These case papers contain documentation and evidence collected by the police for use by the prosecution in trials. The absence of these case papers means that trial proceedings of these cases cannot be completed.

Confirming the development, a senior police officer from

Mumbai police said, "Following the incident of Wadala police station, special directions have been issued to other police stations as well to check whether the documents of all the cases which were registered in the past, are in place."

The investigating officers of the nine cases are—police inspector Sanjay Shinde, assistant police inspector Hindurao Bhalare, Balasahab Mokel, Jadhav and police sub-inspectors Shakir Patel, Nalini Shinde and Pankaj Satpute.

An official said that the showcause notices were served to them recently at their respective residences and also at their current workplace, during which it came to light that the investigating officer of a case, Satpute, passed away recently, while another officer has retired from the force.

Police officials said that four of those cases were registered in 2011, one in 2012, three other cases are of 2014 and one case is from 2015. An officer said, "The cases pertain to molestation, kidnapping, assault, theft, house break-in and child labour. While two each of the nine cases were being probed by Shinde and Patel, the rest of the officers were handling one each of which the documents have gone missing."

The police officials further added that initially in March 2022, it had come to light that documents of 21 cases were missing from Wadala police station. "Everyone had panicked then, but as the premises of the police station was shifted from one place to another nearby location in 2018, we started looking for those documents at our old police station's premises and after a few months we succeeded in finding the documents of 12 cases. They were found lying behind the cupboards and under the table at the police station," said a police officer.

Despite searching for over 18 months, as the documents of nine cases are still missing, senior police officials believe that the documents were not submitted by the investigating officers of those cases. "Ideally at the time of transfer, the officers submit the documents of their cases to the police inspector holding crime portfolio at the police station, according to make necessary entry and prepare a Summary report.

But it appears that they were neither submitted at court nor were handed over to anyone at the police station after they were transferred out due to which foul play is suspected and showcause notices have been issued to them," said an officer.

In the notices, the investigating officers were told the documents were not submitted by them and that it would help the accused of those cases in getting acquitted which would further cause injustice to the victims. "Before we take any further action against them, we have asked them to come and show us some proof of the Summary report which proves that they have submitted those documents at the police station or court before being transferred out," said an officer.

BMC set to host light and sound shows at Tilak Udyan in Girgaon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
MUMBAI, JANUARY 19

THE BRIHANMUMBAI Municipal Corporation is all set to host light and sound shows at Girgaon's Lokmanya Tilak Udyan. The project is part of BMC's six-step beautification plan to upgrade the infrastructure of Girgaon beach.

The Tilak Udyan, also known as Swarajyabhoomi, is the place where freedom fighter Lokmanya Bal Gangadhar Tilak was cremated. To preserve the heritage of this place, the BMC will project light and shadow shows as part of a unique initiative known as 'speaking tree'.

Moving images will be projected on the trees in the manner of light and shadow shows. The officials said the images will be like a show-reel that will give insight about the history of Maharashtra and Mumbai.

"The projected show reel will include chapters from Ramayana, life and struggles of Lokmanya Tilak along with significant chapters of India's history. In the long run, similar projects will be implemented in key historical locations of this city," said an official.

The light and sound shows was inaugurated by Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnis on Friday. Overall, the BMC has proposed a six-package plan for beautifying the Swarajyabhoomi and Girgaon Chowpaty. The civic body has pitched to create a glow garden which will include illuminated terra pods. The BMC also plans to install colourful glow lamps and make LED seating arrangements for visitors.

Maharashtra declares public holiday on January 22

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
MUMBAI, JANUARY 19

THE STATE government on Friday declared a public holiday on January 22 to mark the consecration ceremony of Ram Temple at Ayodhya in Uttar Pradesh.

An order to this effect was issued during the day. The announcement comes a day after the Central government declared a half-day holiday for its employees.

The decision was taken after Chief Minister Eknath Shinde returned from World Economic Forum (WEF) at Davos in Switzerland.

A number of legislators from BJP had raised the demand to declare a public holiday on Monday.

EFFORT TO SAVE 10,500 TREES

Residents stage 'Chipko Andolan' to save green belt in Ghatkopar

NAYONIKABOSE
MUMBAI, JANUARY 19

USUALLY REVERBERATING with the sounds of choreographed laughter therapy sessions, yoga classes and children, the civic-run Manoranjan maidan in Ghatkopar wore a pensive look on Friday morning, as local residents staged a Chipko Andolan in a bid to oppose a civic proposal which pitches to convert the garden into a cemetery and, partially, into a hospital. The public garden is home to a Miyawaki plantation of nearly 10,500 trees.

While the Ghatkopar garden—sprawling nearly 9,000 sq m—is currently earmarked as a 'recreational ground', the proposal put forth by the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) seeks to convert nearly 4,293 sq mt of the garden into cemetery and 4,300 sq mt into a hospital. The civic plan has drawn flak from the local residents, who have now resorted to the 'Chipko' protests to save the open space.

While there is already a kabristan situated behind the ground, according to senior officials, the plan to extend the burial ground into the garden space has been floated to meet the demand of the lack of space at the existing cemetery.

Speaking to The Indian Express, Kishore Gandhi, Deputy Municipal Commissioner (Gardens) said, "We have received a proposal from the Development Planning (DP) department. We have informed the DP that if we are allocated an alternative area in the vicinity, we will develop another garden there. Currently, none of the trees have been affected. No action will be taken until the reservation is changed."

He added, "There is a reservation of a cemetery in the garden's vicinity. However, according to the health department, there is an increasing lack of space in the current kabristan."

Currently, the garden boasts of housing nearly 10,500 indigenous trees which had been planted by the civic body in 2020, deploying the Japanese Miyawaki afforestation technique.

For residents of the neighbourhood, who frequent the garden for daily walks, yoga sessions, sports among other activities, the garden is an integral green lung of the locality.

Youth booked for allegedly raping 21-yr-old woman in Worli, say police

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
MUMBAI, JANUARY 19

A 24-year-old man from Mumbai central suburbs has been booked for allegedly sexually assaulting a 21-year-old woman.

The police said the accused and the victim initially became familiar with each other on Instagram and after they met on January 13, the youth allegedly took her to his friend's place and forced himself on her while she was under the influence of alcohol.

According to police officials, the case was initially registered at a police station in the northern suburbs but it was transferred to Worli police station on Thursday.

An officer said, "The two had met along with their friends at around 11 pm on January 13 and went to two different restaurants."

The police said both the victim and the accused consumed alcohol and later in the wee hours on January 14, the man took her to his friend's place in Worli.

"The woman was heavily drunk and she claims the accused forced himself on her after she lost consciousness at his friend's house," said an officer.

The victim went and informed her parents on January 15 after which they reported the matter at a local police station, where a case of rape and assault was registered.

"The case was transferred to Worli police station on Thursday as the incident had taken place at their friend's place in Worli," said an officer.

The youth allegedly took her to his friend's place and forced himself on her while she was under the influence of alcohol

GOLD IDOLS IN HIGH DEMAND AS WEALTHY, DEVOUT SPEND BIG

Private jets crowd Ayodhya skies

SAURABH SHARMA & TANVI MEHTA
Ayodhya, January 19

THE PRIVATE JET parking lots at airports near the Indian city of Ayodhya are full and the shops have run out of gold-plated idols, as wealthy devotees prepare for the invite-only opening ceremony of one of Hinduism's holiest temples.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Asia's richest man Mukesh Ambani are among the 8,000 or so attendees at Monday's inauguration event for the Ram Temple, which devotees believe is built on the birthplace of Lord Ram.

The construction of the temple, which began after the Supreme Court awarded the site to Hindus in 2019 more than two decades after a Hindu mob razed a mosque there, triggering deadly riots, fulfils a key campaign promise of Modi and his party.

The opening ceremony, organised by the trust that built the temple, comes months before a national election which the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is widely expected to win, and the who's who of India is expected to be there.

"It's become like a status symbol to be invited to this event," said Rajan Mehra, CEO of Indian luxury charter service Club One Air, adding that his fleet, which includes the Dassault Falcon 2000, is booked to make multiple trips next week.

Officials estimate 100 private jets will descend on January 22 on Ayodhya airport, filling it to capacity. Slots at Varanasi, a city around four hours away by car, are also full, as are jet spaces in Gorakhpur airport, which is a three-hour drive away.

Mehra did not disclose the price of the charters, but private jet booking website JetSetGo lists the price of a Mumbai-Gorakhpur flight on a Falcon 2000 jet with nine passengers on board at about $74,000. The ceremony is also giving

Ram Mandir being illuminated ahead of the Pran Pratishtha ceremony. Nearly 100 private jets will reportedly descend on Ayodhya airport on Monday

Workers eager to return home

MAULSHREE SETH
Ayodhya, January 19

BEFORE NEARLY 8,000 VIP guests descend on Ayodhya for the January 22 consecration ceremony, 2,000 workers who have been toiling in two shifts of 12 hours each for months to get the temple ready for the "grand opening" were given a "short break" on Friday evening.

Construction at the temple was temporarily halted on Friday evening and will resume after the ceremony.

An official responsible for the construction told The Indian Express, "Around 2,000 workers are engaged here at present. The work has been halted till January 22. Slab laying work is nearly complete for the first floor. Though we requested the workers to stay put, many are keen on making a quick trip home. We have asked them to resume work soon."

As they make plans for their short break, the excitement among the workers is hard to miss. While some are bubbling with personal tales of their construction experience, the others are desperate to show their entire village their "most exclusive trophies" — photographs from inside the temple, the garbh grah (sanctum sanctorum), etc.

One such worker is Prem Chand Sharma, 45, a resident of Madhya Pradesh's Morena district who has been camping in Ayodhya for the past 19 months.

Lamenting that he does not own a smartphone, he says, "Humko 27 ko bulaya hai, par 1 tarik ko socha hai wapsi ka. Kaam to kiya hai aur mandir mein bhi, par itna bara kaam nahi kiya. Iss kaam mein humein itni has ka ek hissa bana diya hai (We have been asked to return on January 27, but I plan to return on February 1. I have worked on other temples too, but nothing this big. Thanks to this assignment, I am now a part of history)."

The idol of Lord Ram was placed inside the sanctum sanctorum on Friday.

jewellers and gold traders a boost. Some retailers say gold and gold-plated statues of Lord Ram and temple replicas — priced at between ₹30,000 and ₹220,000 — are so popular that they have run out of stock. Some items were imported from Thailand, they added.

"Customers are asking for them for gifting and for keeping them at homes. There is a waiting period of two weeks," said Baldev Singh, a manager at HS Jewellers in Lucknow city.

The temple has already ushered an economic boom in Ayodhya, set to emerge as a pilgrimage hotspot for India's 1.1 billion Hindus, and property prices have skyrocketed. This week, Bollywood superstar Amitabh Bachchan bought a 10,000 square foot (929 square meter) plot for $1.7 million, government officials said, roughly nine times the average land prices in this dusty city just a few years ago.

The plot is part of the House of Abhinandan Lodha (HoABL) luxury development which includes a spa and a pool.

"There's huge demand for the project from domestic professionals, non-resident Indians. This is unlike any other demand," HoABL Chairman Abhinandan Lodha told Reuters.

"People are betting on economic prosperity but there's also emotional attachment to be part of the Ayodhya story." —REUTERS

India's women's hockey: Few wins, no star scorers

MIHIR VASAVDA
New Delhi, January 19

"I DON'T KNOW." With these words, India coach Janneke Schopman ended the media interaction after the 1-0 loss to Japan, which shattered the Paris Olympics dreams. Schopman, who took over the team immediately after the Tokyo Olympics where it finished fourth, was asked about her future.

Since the Tokyo Games, there were ample signs of this being a team in stagnation — from Muscat to Amstelveen and Terrasa, Birmingham to Hangzhou. Ranchi, however, proved that it was far more serious: India were in decline.

Whether Schopman emerges from this unscathed remains to be seen, especially since her employers — Hockey India — aren't the ones to take setbacks so kindly. If a section of Hockey India had its way, it is learnt the Dutchwoman wouldn't have been in Ranchi for the qualifiers — they wanted her out after last year's Asian Games, where India missed the first chance to seal an Olympic berth.

Whether she gets — and if she wants — a longer rope is a question that immediately pops up in the immediate aftermath of this catastrophe.

Not just Schopman. Captain and goalkeeper Savita Punia, one of the pillars over the last decade, did not answer the question about her future. After years of unprecedented highs, this loss might be too bitter, too heavy for Savita and the rest of her teammates to digest.

But amidst the scrutiny over the coach and fate of senior players, a basic question emerges: How did a team that finished fourth at the Tokyo Olympics mess up so badly that they didn't even make it to Paris?

This was, after all, a more favourable scenario compared to the last time. Unlike the Tokyo qualification race, which was a two-legged, winner-takes-all playoff, this was an eight-team affair where the top three were awarded Olympic spots. At world No.6, India were the second-highest-ranked team and were playing at home. It felt like everything had aligned for them to make it to their third straight Olympics.

There will be a detailed post-mortem in the days to come, but a few key issues stand out: India's inability to beat higher-ranked teams, consistently losing critical matches, an ill-planned succession of key players and lack of transparency over team selections.

Inability to beat big teams

The common link between Indian women's hockey's two biggest achievements — the 2002 CWG title and Tokyo Olympics fourth place — was the fact that they defeated much-fancied opponents while doing so. It was New Zealand and England at Manchester 2002, and Australia at Tokyo 2020.

Since that sultry afternoon in the Japanese capital three years ago, India haven't managed a single eye-popping win. In the 2022 World Cup, they couldn't beat England and China, lost to New Zealand and Spain. In a three-nation tournament in Germany last year, they lost to the hosts and China and later in 2023, they lost to Spain, Belgium and Germany at a five-nation tournament in Spain.

Big event flop
The inability to go toe-to-toe with nations ranked higher than, or closer to, them meant India constantly fell short in tournaments of consequence. Especially in crunch knockout games, the team seemed to have been lacking the mental fortitude and basic hockey skills eluded them.

'Jai Shri Ram' echoes in UK Parliament

THE UK PARLIAMENT resonated with chants of Lord Ram just ahead of the Ram Temple 'pran prathista' ceremony set to be held in India on January 22. The Sanatan Sanstha of UK (SSUK) initiated the joyous celebrations for Ram Mandir at the British Parliament, echoed with the divine sound of a Shankh. The atmosphere within the walls of the House of Commons was enriched as Shri Ram, hailed as the 'Yugpurush', became the focal point of reverence. The event began with a soulful bhajan, followed by SSUK members giving a presentation of the Kalkbhushundi Samvad. Harrow MP Bob Blackman, along with Raj Rajeshwar Guru ji and Swami Surya Prabha Didi from Brahmharishi Ashram, Hunsdon, presided over the event, marking a harmonious blend of spirituality and parliamentary presence. —ANI
